

Mather LifeWays Institute on Aging

Does your staff have the tools to respond to emergencies?

“PREPARE opened my eyes to the need for planning and training...”
- Peter Marquardt, Recreation/Emergency Preparedness Coordinator

Understanding age-appropriate care for elders and preparing the senior living (SL) and long-term care (LTC) workforce to deal effectively with natural and manmade disasters and other public health emergencies in their communities, represents an immediate need as we face an aging population.

- PREPARE is an emergency disaster preparedness program, designed by Mather LifeWays Institute on Aging, for senior living and long-term care communities
- PREPARE equips senior living and long-term care workforces with skills/resources to respond to natural and manmade disasters or public health emergencies
- PREPARE increases staff understanding of the unique challenges of emergency situations in long-term care and senior living residences
- PREPARE provides the tools to create an all-hazards disaster plan

Don't just be ready, be PREPARE'd!
